The perfect book to teach pre-school children about the most important acts in Islam.

The very first pillar of our faith is Tawheed. It goes without saying then that this pillar must therefore be of the utmost importance. Yet if we speak to children and ask them about the 5 pillars of Islam they will probably be able to tell us more about fasting and salah than Tawheed. To them Tawheed means you believe in Allah and the last messenger, Prophet Muhammed (PBUH). It is a simple statement that is correct, but a simple statement that has a lot of meaning behind it. When we build a house we will start by laying a line of bricks in a row. Upon this row we will layer the other bricks on top. If after building a wall, we removed some of the bricks in the first row, the house would come tumbling down. Tawheed is just like that first layer of bricks on a house that is supporting all the other layers. If the foundation of our faith is built strongly, then the rest of our actions and deeds will be sound. But if our Tawheed is weak in understanding and application, then this will affect the validity of all our actions. This is why it is so significant for children (and adults) to understand what it means by the word Tawheed; so that they can understand what it contains and increase their knowledge and relationship with Allah. The more they know about Allah, the more they will love Allah. This book has been designed to introduce children to the concept of Tawheed and explain to them more about their Creator. It is hoped that this will help all children understand their Creator better and increase their relationship with Him.

Allah Made Everything, the song book, is based on the lyrics of the well-loved children's song by renowned singer and songwriter Zain Bhikha. The song was first released in 2015, and together with the hit video, has become one of the most popular Muslim children's songs across the world.

In Europe and North America Muslims are often represented in conflict with modernity—but what could be more modern than motivational programs that represent Islamic practice as conducive to business success and personal growth? Daromir Rudnyckyj's innovative and surprising book challenges widespread assumptions about contemporary Islam by showing how moderate Muslims in Southeast Asia are reinterpreting Islam not to reject modernity but to create a "spiritual economy" consisting of practices conducive to globalization. Drawing on more than two years of research in Indonesia, most of which took place at state-owned Krakatau Steel, Rudnyckyj shows how self-styled "spiritual reformers" seek to enhance the Islamic piety of workers across Southeast Asia and beyond. Deploying vivid description and a keen ethnographic sensibility, Rudnyckyj depicts a program called Emotional and Spiritual Quotient (ESQ) training that reconfigures Islamic practice and history to make the religion compatible with principles for corporate success found in Euro-American management texts, self-help manuals, and life-coaching sessions. The prophet Muhammad is represented as a model for a corporate CEO and the five pillars of Islam as directives for self-discipline, personal responsibility, and achieving "win-win" solutions. Spiritual Economies reveals how capitalism and religion are converging in Indonesia and other parts of the developing and developed world. Rudnyckyj offers an alternative to the commonly held view that religious practice serves as a refuge from or means of resistance against modernization and neoliberalism. Moreover, his innovative approach charts new avenues for future research on globalization, religion, and the predicaments of modern life.

Prayer is one of the five pillars of Islam, which are: the attestation of faith, prayer, fasting, almsgiving and pilgrimage. In Islamic law, whoever denies the obligation to pray is considered apostate, punishable by death. And whoever does not pray out of laziness is considered a sinner, and must be forced to pray. Then, if he refuses, he may be put to death. This obligation to pray and the death penalty is confirmed in a book of Ibn Rushd, the famous philosopher and jurist known as Averroes. According to Islamic law, the five daily prayers to be performed by the Muslim are only valid if the Fatiha is recited. It is also recited at the conclusion of the marriage contract, during visits to cemeteries and on other occasions. The aspect that interests us in this study is the interpretation that has been given to this invocation through the centuries, especially concerning the two groups: "Those who are angered upon" and "Those who are misguided." The answer to this question can be summarized in one sentence: in the overwhelming majority of exegetes: "Those who are angered upon" are the Jews, and "Those who are misguided" are the Christians. If indeed the meaning advanced by exegetes is the one we have just mentioned, one wonders how Muslims can coexist in peace and harmony with the Jews and the Christians as they repeat this chapter at least seventeen times in their daily prayers? The Author Sami A. Aldeeb Abu-Sahlieh. Christian of Palestinian origin. Swiss citizen. Doctor in law. Habilitated to direct researches. Professor of universities (CNU-France). Oneness of Almighty Allah, Salah, Zakat, Fasting and Hajj are the acts of worship that are believed as the pillars of Islam by Muslims. Non-believers take these as the face of Islam and they recognize Muslims by watching them practice these acts of worship.Almighty Allah encourages His slaves by announcing enormous rewards for each of these acts of worship. Holy Prophet PBUH presents a role model by practicing these in a divinely guided way. Believers try their best to follow the well demonstrated mode of these acts of worship to attain success in both worlds. Of course, the real and eternal life will start in Hereafter and the life in this world is temporary. That's why we are guided towards the eternal aspect of these pillars but ignoring the betterment of this life is also against the teachings of Islam.Even for the temporary life, Allah Almighty has created a wide-scale system for the benefit of mankind. However, we are supposed to explore the ways to get benefit from these resources. Cultivating crops, digging out minerals, inventing technology, etc. depends upon our effort. The more we make effort the more we get benefit. Apparently, buying a house is just owning a property but in reality many other bonuses are attached to it. For instance, moving in to live, upgrading social status, feasible investment, etc. Likewise, practicing these acts of worship are basically following the commandments of Allah but there are attached many bonuses for us. Let's explore these bonuses that play amazing role to benefit us in this temporary life. Having awareness about these can take our worldly life to a better level and will be helpful in understanding Islam in a scientific manner, In sha Allah. This book is compiled to discuss the philosophy of five pillars in the light of authentic references from Quran and Hadith to elaborate the way of life that is built on them. Better understanding of it is essential for the success of humanity in this world and in Hereafter. May Allah grant us the ability to follow the teachings of Islam with comprehension, Ameen.
