When you're in the mood for a classic Sherlock Holmes story, nothing else will do. In this tightly plotted tale, the services of the famed super-sleuth are solicited by a distraught landlady. At her behest, Holmes and Watson investigate the case of a mysterious lodger who may not be what he appears to be.

Dr. Griffiths' Principals of Inclusion is both a practical, realistic blueprint and an inspiring call to action for accelerating schools/school systems in their search to optimize all students' potential (inclusion). In an information age and an increasingly interconnected Global Village, no student's potential can afford to be wasted, especially by exclusionary educational practices/traditions (either conscious or unconscious). Dr. Griffiths writes clearly, using universal metaphors/tactics applicable to all educational situations.

A colonial settlement was established in the middle of Cape Ann in the late 1600's in woodlots and cleared land known as the Commons. Some say people settled there as protection from pirates and enemy Indians. Others say it was because the land was free. Commoners earned their living as farmers, weavers, shepherds, and fishermen. The settlement doubled in size to about fifty families by the mid 1700's. But then, unlike most places that continued to grow to the present day, the population began to decline. With the emergence of coastal industries like fishing, shipping, and trading, people moved back to the harbor. The houses left behind were rented and soon fell into disrepair. By the mid 1800's all of the houses in this part of Gloucester, which became known as Dogtown, were torn down. Only the root cellars - today's cellar holes - remained. Combining maps, genealogy data, and oral history, THE CELLARS SPEAK offers new insight into the spatial and social structure of Dogtown. It explains how the original settlement started and may have developed in its early days, and how family trees "connect" the homes of parents to those of their children forming social networks. These networks suggest the Commons and later Dogtown were not unlike the rest of town, in fact, not all that different from today's Gloucester, where as someone once joked, "everyone knows everybody, and everyone is related."

"He Walks with Dragons" takes place when what was, what is, and what shall be were one in the same. Draig, a boy on the verge of his manhood, is summoned to the majestic mountain by the Great Ones. There he finds out he is about to transcend the ages and risk his life to prevent the destruction of mankind. Born into the na 1 ve innocence of ancient man, Draig lives a simple pastoral existence in a quiet, small village. But one day he is flung on a magical journey into a forbidden new world. There, Draconos, a dragon, befriends the boy, training him in the art of warfare. From this day forward, the young boy finds himself in awe at the wonders the world holds for him. Not only has Draig become a man, but he is living like a dragon and learning their mystical powers. " From the time Man first crawled upon this earth...we found him worthy to take his rightful place among the cresaures that walk upon the earth. While hiding in the shadows, we have protected him. We have nurtured him all these many ages. But now man grows in great numbers and makes war on everything he sees. " And when the time comes, will Draig be willing to lay down his life for the sake of saving the dragons? And when the dragons are gone, where will he go? He is no longer just a man.

This reissued illustrated chapter book is based on the classic characters found in Pokemon GO and the classic animated series on Netflix. The Orange Islands are weird! Ash and the gang discover Pok é mon they've never seen before. Onix is made of crystal. Rhyhorn has turned pink. Marill has super sonar. And Snorlax is on a feeding frenzy! There is one thing Ash can count on. Team Rocket is setting their usual traps to swipe rare Pok é mon—and Pikachu, of course. Can Ash stop them before Pikachu becomes Pink-achu? This reissued illustrated chapter book is based on the classic characters found in Pokemon GO and the classic animated series on Netflix.

Albert the Great was born in Swabia, the son of a military nobleman. He was a Dominican priest who taught theology in Cologne and Paris. His most distinguished student was Saint Thomas Aquinas. Albert was called "Doctor universals" because his breadth of knowledge spanned not only philosophy and theology but all the natural sciences. He was a dedicated student of nature, and although he argued that the physical world can only be known reliably through observation and comparison, Albert distinguished between thruths, which are naturally knowable, and mysteries, which cannot be known without revelation. People can only reach God through Himself - that is, by leaving behind the entanglements of earthly things and contemplating Him exclusively. The image and reality of God's incarnation in Jesus gives human beings the opportunity to attain a more perfect knowledge God through contemplation. Albert refers to the teaching of St. Peter, "Cast all your anxiety on him, because he cares for you."

A rambunctious mutt and a curious porpoise become best pals in this adorably charming story about friendship and family.

This book contains 100 short exercises, exposing the student to over 2000 words. Most pages have no more than ten questions. As many of the exercises in this book, include putting words into groups of synonyms, it helps to build sets of words rather than having to learn all of the words individually.

Violent killings of unarmed black men and women by police must cease. This is an artist's attempt to extinguish a fire with creativity. He has drawn leaders and thinkers and great revolutionary minds marching, holding onto what makes them truly remarkable. Dr. King is holding onto his faith. Assata Shakur is holding onto her freedom. Dred Scott is holding onto his freedom papers. Frederick Douglass is holding onto the thirteenth amendment. Madame C.J. Walker is holding onto her scissors. Ida B. Wells is holding onto a newspaper that says, "Injustice for All" and they're marching in front of victims of hate crimes and police brutality. Trayvon Martin is holding onto a pack of Skittles and a can of Arizona Tea. Mike Brown is holding onto his diploma. Eric Garner is holding onto a pack of cigarettes. Sean Bell is holding onto the wedding ring he never got to give to his wife. This book is a marriage of education and awareness that we are living in a time of chaos and corruption when injustics happens everyday. This comprehensive and complex coloring book is the creative narrative of a movement which is simply stating that all lives will not matter until the most vulnerable and attacked population throughout history is seen and treated as equal- We are all remarkable.
