Freedom is only one generation from extinction. It's Tea Party Time! It's party time on the prairies! Summer has finally made it to the Heartland and we have something to celebrate as Independence Day 2011 approaches. It is not something that can be seen, heard, tasted, smelled or touched in a tangible sense, but rather something in another dimension-something which deeply affects how we ...

The number of apprentices allowed to masters was frequently limited, perhaps to prevent too many qualifying for the freedom, but also to prevent men like John Lewis, whitebaker, who enrolled 25 apprentices between 1542 and 1574, from using apprentices as cheap labour, or simply to take their premiums 'for their private profit and lucre's sake'. The cordwainers dictated the piece-rates to be ...
